

Dar Bunde

This has been another great year for trying new techniques and that always holds my interest in art. Working with acrylics has really been my passion the last 4 months. I also have loved doing abstract. There are wonderful teachers at the White Bear Center for the Arts and through Northstar Watermedia Society, that are willing to push you to try new things and it really becomes a wonderful experience to see the painting taking off and finishing up to my enjoyment. I do paint for myself and like to share with anyone who may be interested. I have given many paintings to silent auctions to help foundations or people in need. That is what makes me the most happy.

My "Artist At Work" painting will be an abstract with acrylics on a stretched canvas. Of course, it will be filled with color as that is the most rewarding for me. I do paint the sides of the canvas just in case it will be hung without a frame. I still consider myself to be an artist at work as each year I feel I am growing and taking in some of the new techniques that are out there for all of us. Paint happy and that will make you feel that you are on the road to a new adventure.
